

Frogs and Toads

ACROSS

- 4 Term used for a baby toad
- 7 The group of animals that frogs and toads are in
- 9 Sound made by the American Toad
- 10 Number of species of toads currently known to be in Loudoun
- 13 Number of species of frogs currently known to be in Loudoun
- 14 This frog is known for its "peeps"
- 16 Our largest frog, able to eat other frogs as well as snakes and small birds
- 18 Term used for a collection of frog eggs
- 19 This frog changes its body fluids into a type of antifreeze in winter during hibernation
- 20 The seasonal migrations where thousands of amphibians migrate from forests to their breeding pools and ponds
- 21 The texture of frogs' skin

DOWN

- 1 This frog's call sounds like a fingernail being run over the teeth of a comb
- 2 The texture of toads' skin
- 3 Ephemeral wetlands where Wood Frogs lay their eggs
- 5 Frogs and toads spend ___ percent of their lives in forest habitats and grassy areas
- 6 A non-climbing member of the tree frog family
- 8 Amphibians are known as an ___ of environmental health because they live both on land and in water
- 11 This frog's call sounds like a banjo
- 12 When frog and toad eggs hatch, these emerge
- 15 The primary food of frogs and toads
- 17 Term used for a baby frog

Frogs and Toads

Solution:

To learn more about our local frogs and toads or to get clues to the puzzle, visit our website and click on Habitat Herald Archives in the navigation bar. Use the drop-down menus to locate the article that corresponds to this topic:

Habitat Herald, Vol X, Issue 2, The Amphibians of Loudoun